Wisconsin.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Ill., Sept. 2.—For the first time since the inauguration of Labor Day the great parade of local unions was omitted today. The various organizations decided to abandon the parade and devote to other uses the large amount of money which was formerly expended upon it. The business houses and factories, generally, were closed.

The Holiday in the State
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 2.—Milwaukee and Wisconsin are today celebrating Labor day in common with the entire country.

Not only where labor unions are strong are celebrations being held, but many smaller cities have joined the ranks and have turned the day into a holiday.

In Milwaukee there was a big parade of unionists at 11 o'clock this morning. It is estimated that 8,000 men were in line. The striking telegraphers were out in force.

in Education.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Bath, England, Sept. 2.—All of the staple trades interesting organized labor and several new subjects are included in the agenda for the fourth British Trade Union Congress which began here today.

Among the resolutions to be submitted are a number dealing with amendments to the Factory Acts for the benefit of various trades. On behalf of the National Federation of Great Britain a resolution will be proposed protesting against the class prejudice displayed and anti-democratic policy pursued by the educational authorities, and demanding that the highest and best official form of secondary education be free and available to all children capable of taking advantage of it.

The congress will be asked to "assert its approval of the principle of a universal eight-hour day in all employments, with the object of preventing undue strain upon the physical and mental capacity of the workers."

The doctors' union urge the affirmation of the principles of arbitration and conciliation, both voluntary and compulsory, in trades disputes. The establishment of a labor daily newspaper will be proposed to the congress by the London society of compositors.

Today's proceedings of the congress were only formal. The mayor of Bath welcomed the delegates and in the afternoon the visitors went sightseeing. The serious business of the congress will begin tomorrow.

EXPLODES WHEN SPANKED

MICHIGAN BOY FATALLY INJURED AND MOTHER MAIMED.

Lad Had Dynamite Cap in His Hip Pocket When Parent Struck Him with Shingle.

Chelabysan, Mich., Sept. 2.—Mrs. Fred Williams, living at Bear Point, on Crooked lake, near this city, was severely injured, and her seven-year-old son was probably fatally hurt when a dynamite cap in the boy's hip pocket exploded while the mother was spanking him for a minor offense.

The little boy had been out in the field where his father was using dynamite to blow up stumps, and had slipped one of the percussion caps which Mr. Williams was using in his pocket. He later returned to the house, where his mother called him in to be punished for some childish misdeed. Mrs. Williams used a shingle as the instrument of punishment.

The first blow from the shingle exploded the cap in the boy's pocket, and the explosion tore a large hole in his hip, from which he is believed to be dying. The mother lost two fingers and received a number of minor cuts about her face and body.

TWO MOTORMEN ARRESTED.

Held Responsible for Fatal Wreck Near Charleston, Ill.

Charleston, Ill., Sept. 2.—Following the verdict of the coroner's jury, charging them with criminal negligence, which resulted in the death of 14 persons in an interurban collision Friday, motormen Ben F. McClara and Charles Batts were arrested Sunday. McClara was motorman of the express car and Batts was motorman on car No. 14, in which the victims were riding. Both men were released on bonds of $3,000 each.

The coroner's jury completed its investigations Sunday and returned its verdict. McClara is blamed for leaving Charleston without knowing whose car No. 14 was; Batts is accused of disobeying orders in not having his car under proper control while going around the curve where the disaster occurred. The jury further charges that the Central Illinois Traction company employs incompetent men, and does not keep in its principal office some person from whom employees can get positive instructions in the movement of cars, and that instructions to employees on days when the regular schedule is not in force are misleading.

Cracks His Skull.

Washington, Sept. 2.—While under the influence of gas Sunday preparatory to having a tooth extracted, George W. Bowers, aged 28, rose from the chair and violently attacked Dr. R. B. Leonard, who was treating him, severely beating and knocking him down. The doctor's call for help brought Dr. W. H. Wunder, who was treated in a similar fashion.

Fearing that his life was in danger, Dr. Wunder reached for a small hammer near by and used it freely on Bowers' head, causing a compound fracture of the skull. Bowers was taken to the emergency hospital, and Dr. Wunder was arrested. He was released in $1,000 bail.

During the struggle between the three men Bowers' wife and a number of women patients were thrown into a panic and took flight. Bowers will recover.

POLICY OF ADMINISTRATION MAY BE ASSAILED AGAIN

Fifteenth Annual Irrigation Congress To Be Held At Sacramento May Attack Governmental Department.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 2.—With delegates present from all the states west of the Mississippi river representing practically every commercial organization in the great territory included in the semiarid and arid region of the country, the National Irrigation Congress began its fifteenth annual session here today to discuss ways and means to "save the forests, store the floods, reclaim the deserts, and make homes on the land."

The sessions will continue until Saturday, and during that time much important action is expected to be taken looking toward the reclamation of the vast unsettled territory of the west that awaits the touch of water to blossom as the rose.

The live interest taken in the congress and its objects is evidenced by the large and representative attendance. In addition to Governor Chamberlain of Oregon who is the president of the congress, the executives of several other western states are already here or are expected before tomorrow.

Others in attendance include several United States senators, government experts in forestry and irrigation and representatives of many commercial organizations and colonization movements. Heading the list of prominent participants and speakers is Charles W. Fairbanks, Vice President of the United States, whose address is scheduled as the feature of the initial session.

The presence of Gifford Pinchot, United States forester, and several other representatives of the administration in Washington leads to the belief that a lively debate is on the tapis on the subject of the administration policies with reference to the public land. If the subject is introduced it will probably precipitate a lively discussion as that had on the same subject at the forestry congress held in Denver some months ago, and in which the government policy was defended by Mr. Pinchot and others against the assaults made by many of the most prominent public men of the western states.

IRL HICKS PREDICTS A STORMY SEPTEMBER

St. Louis Weather Prophet Says That Meteorological Record The World Over
Will Approach The Phenomenal.

Irish R. Hicks, the St. Louis weather prophet, is of the opinion that September will be disturbed, if not phenomenally stormy. The astronomical outlook, he says, strongly points to such results.

In his forecast Mr. Hicks says that storms will sweep progressively over the country from the 4th to the 7th of September, and that volcanic shocks will be felt in many places within forty-eight hours of noon of the 7th. The second storm period will be central on the 9th, 10th, and 11th, and this he calls "the annual crisis of magnetic unrest." He adds that heavy storms of rain, hail, wind and thunder will move out of the northwest and be followed by a great change to cooler, with probable frosts.

Planets as Disturbers
Severe storms are to be expected, according to Mr. Hicks, from the 11th to the 19th. This he calls the crisis of the autumnal equinox, with Jupiter, Saturn, Mercury, Venus and Venus all central in disturbing energy. He adds that "this period and this whole central part of the month is full of perturbing causes and phenomena."

LOCAL LAOTICUS.

Gets a Promotion: Benjamin F. Carey, who has been rated clerk at the C. & M. & St. P. freight depot for some years past, has been promoted to the position of cashier at the freight depot in Beloit. His many friends, who regret his forthcoming departure from Janesville, will rejoice in his advancement in his chosen calling.

Retires from Carriage Co.: Malachi C. Fitch, who for seven years past has been vice-president of the Wisconsin Carriage Co., has retired from the firm. His plans for the future are not yet definite. Prior to engaging in the vehicle business he was one of the best-known jewelry salesmen in the state.

"Charley Howe" Wins Again: "Charley Howe," the fast little pacer owned by Charles Scheller, captured another race at the Burlington fair on Saturday. Pitted against five other starters in the 2:20 pace, he easily took three straight heats in 2:17 1/2, 2:17 1/2, and 2:21.

To Build New Home: Adam Holt, who has retired from active life as a landlord of the Railroad hotel, is now making his home at 105 Terrace street. He plans next spring to erect a commodious residence on his property, the corner of Main and Racine streets, just north of the William Bladen property.

Coming from Liverpool: Daniel Heenan of Liverpool, England, is now aboard the trans-Atlantic steamer "Carmania," en route for Janesville, where he is to take a position in the hardware department of the Leonard-Underwood store. The young man is a relative of Mrs. S. G. Godfrey, who resides east of the city.

Cost of English Paupers.

Some startling figures of comparison have been made to show the great cost of English paupers. The English poor-law foots up an expense of more than $75,000,000 a year, which is as great as the entire annual expenditure of the kingdom of Holland, almost as much as that of Australia and New Zealand combined and equal to the whole public expenditure of Denmark, Greece and Norway.

Precept Worth Heeding.

"Kind hearts are more than coronets, and simple faith than Norman blood." Bid yourself of the idea that money and a showy life count for very much in this world.

nominal possibilities," and that "the chances are that general storms and atmospheric unrest will continue until after."

Another storm period is predicted for the 20th-22d, the forecast adding that very volcanic and seismic convulsions also will be reported within forty-eight hours of sunset on the 21st. Fierce gales and an "almost early" winter out of the northwest" are also among the probabilities. He says that "all the lake regions, especially, should beware of these storms and the change following."

Big Storm Near Close
The fifth storm period, according to Mr. Hicks, will be central on the 27th, and its culminating days will be Friday to Sunday, 27th to 29th. There will then be a change to warmer, with falling barometer, with a return of marked storm conditions.

The forecast closes with the statement that there will be a notable increase of sun spots, and that "unless there is a compensating resultant of warring forces that we cannot see, the meteorological record for September, taking the whole world over, will approach the phenomenal."

HAWK DROVE COWS HOME.

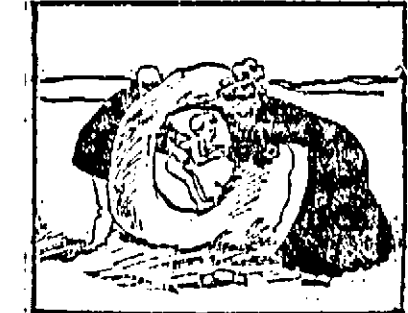

South of Ireland Farmer Certainly Can Boast of Wonderful Bird.

A farmer in the South of Ireland has a herd of about 35 cows, which are turned out to graze daily in a pasture some distance from the farm-house, and it has been the duty of the farmer's son, a lad of 16, to go after the cattle each night, and drive them home to be milked. Some time ago the boy found a hawk's nest, took the young ones home, and raised one as a pet. Since then the hawk has always accompanied the boy. One day recently, the boy hurt his foot, and was unable to go after the cows. The farmer, who was away, sent a neighbor to go after the cows, but the hawk, not one was missing, and flying along in the rear of the herd was the pet hawk. Next evening the hawk again started out after the cows, but this time he was watched. First the bird drove all the cows together by assaulting each separately. Then she drove them all together, and when all the cows were in motion the hawk perched himself on the horn of the rear one, and calmly watched the progress of his charges.

BELIEVE IN STONE'S VIRTUES.

Ancient Superstition That Still Survives in English Shire.

Near the little village of Lanyon, in Cornwall, England, there is an ancient stone to which considerable mystery is attached. It is known as the "mou-and," that name probably having been bestowed on it in Druidical times.

Many superstitious Cornishmen and women, too, even in this enlightened age, believe that the stone has curative properties. Children afflicted with St. Vitus' dance and other nervous ailments are passed naked through the hole in the stone three times, and are then drawn three times along the grass against the sun. The same rites are practiced for spinal diseases.

Shot Bear From Automobile. Hunting bears with an automobile is not exactly the kind of sport that F. D. Marsh of San Francisco was looking for when he made a trip to Crater lake, Oregon, but he arrived in this city last evening from the north and had four claws of a bear tied to the dashboard of his 60 horse-power white wagon.

Marsh says that he and his party ran across a big brown bear by the roadside. Without leaving his seat he fired a shot that was fatal to brute. He does not say that the bullet pierced the heart of the bear, but he shows the four claws as evidence that he is telling a straight story.—Sacramento News.

SERMON ON THE GLORY OF LABOR
DELIVERED BY REV. RICHARD M. VAUGHAN AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH YESTERDAY.

GOD, THE SUPREME TOILER

And All Honest Work is Fellowship With Him—Learned Weights Himself in Balance of the Almighty and Housewife Sees Robes of Eternal Life.

Matthew 23:11: "He that is greatest among you shall be your servant."

We honor labor today. It has not in all ages received the due esteem. Slavery wherever it has prevailed has put a stamp of degradation upon manual labor. Even today in the dictionary of some social classes a gentleman is a man who does not work. But all people whose opinions have value honor the toilers, whether rich or poor, whether their brows are wet with sweat on the outside or the inside.

The heroes of the Bible were laborers: Moses the shepherd, Paul the tent-maker, Jesus the carpenter. To be not represented by the Bible as a curse of sin. At the first man and woman were bidden to dress and keep the garden. Labor is a part of the normal and divine nature of things, that sin puts in an element of ungodliness.

It is social injustice, man's inhumanity to man which sometimes causes labor to be a burden that crushes. Sweat is good but not sweat and blood. Jesus with clear, sure vision recognized the dignity of labor. He freed himself from dominant ideas, from current standards of value. The first shall be last, the last shall be first. This is the world's way—their great ones exercise authority, they exact respect. With the same Jesus says they are called "benefactors." Holders of special privilege have always decked themselves with titles, "majesties," "excellencies," "highnesses." This is Jesus' way—the greatest are those who serve. They do not exact service, they give it. Not to be ministered unto, but to minister, this is the pathway to greatness. And the ideals of Jesus are in presence of realization, in the Roman empire ad ben served Caesar, in the American republic the President is servant of us all.

There is glory in labor when it upholds our characters, when it is helpful to men, when it is done for God. The work we do stands in vital relation to our characters. Whenever a man lays a stone in a wall he lays a stone in the invisible temple of character; whenever the teamman weighs a block of ice, he weighs himself in the balance of God; whenever a housewife sews a garment she makes the robes of the eternal life. Work indelibly us into the knowledge of things, it disciplines the will. It is a school of spirituality, especially in this day of specialization.

One of the finest things of modern times is the sense of fraternity among the workers of the world. They at least have transcended narrow patriotism and recognized that toilers the world over are a brotherhood. What I do may have little meaning to other men, but it has infinite importance to me. Dishonest work is rotten timber in the temple of character. This is the glory of earnest labor, it makes men and women.

The chief result of toil is the toiler himself. The work I do is the mould of my character.

There is glory to labor when it is helpful to men. The world is full of needs. Men, women, little children, need food, shelter, clothing, truth, love. To satisfy these needs is the function of labor. To be helpful to people, this is life. Two things make appeal to us: acquisition and service. A man may go out into life for what he can get or for what he can give. Service does not exclude acquisition, it determines. On the whole and in the long run the greater the service the greater the acquisition that follows. But the primary thing is service, the secondary thing is acquisition. Why should a man acquire wealth? For power? No, he builds to meet human needs, to be of service to men. Why does a man do business? For profits? No, he works because people require food in their homes.

Is all this faraway and ideal? But life becomes beautiful, divine, and Christian only when a man works not for the sake of the dollar but for the sake of helpfulness to men. Our labor is lifted out from the grave when we are conscious that we are doing work which the world needs. Here is a test of the validity of our callings. Am I engaged in work which is helpful to men? Does the world need what, tobacco, corn, potatoes? Does it need sewing machines, intoxicants? A man has only one life to live, he cannot afford merely to make money. Let him labor to meet human needs. There is no secular and sacred—all work that ministers to man is sacred. We need enthusiasm for humanity, ardor to be helpful, the passion to serve which burned in the heart of Jesus.

Labor is glorious when it is done for God. God is the great Worker. The idea that he made the world a

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cases, nor turn back the clock to find again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pain and purge of this deplorable disease.

At Janesville—A Chemist in the City of Des Moines—found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without a trace of mercury, it successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism, but now, as it is, it cures all cases of Rheumatism, without the least trace of mercury. Those who suffer from Rheumatism, joint pains, neuralgia, sciatica, and all other pains of the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no need of any other medicine to enter longer into our bodies. We will, in confidence recommend long time ago and has been idle since is obsolete. He is over at work in the flowing rivers, the shining sun, the beating heart of man. And this is his ultimate task, "Let us make man in our image." A little boy asked, "What does God do all day long?" Here is the answer: "He is making men and women strong and good and beautiful, and He says to us, 'You may help me.'"

HIT BY INTERURBAN AND SCARCELY HURT

John Cassidy of Beloit Had Miraculous Escape From Death Saturday Afternoon.

John Cassidy of Beloit was hit by an interurban car leaving the Line City for Janesville Saturday afternoon and escaped with but a few slight injuries. The popular throw him from the rails and dashed him to the ground. Injuries and abrasions, the worst of which was over the forehead and along the right eye, were the extent of his wounds and his escape from more serious injuries, if not death, was indeed miraculous. Cassidy is employed as a shoe clerk in the Line city and is known to a number of Janesville people. Several residents of this city who work in Beloit were on the car and witnessed the accident, being on route home to spend Sunday and Labor day.

Hon. Joseph Forney Johnston, recently sent to the United States senate from Alabama, was born in 1843 in Lincoln county, North Carolina. He was at school at the outbreak of the Civil war and at once threw himself into the ranks of the Confederate army as a private, serving from 1861 until 1865 and rising from private to captain. He was wounded four times. He began the practice of law in Selma, Ala., where he built up a lucrative practice which he held until 1883 when he became president of the Alabama National Bank. He retained this position for a decade and shortly afterwards he was chosen as governor of his state, serving from 1896 to 1900. His home is in Birmingham, Ala.

ANSWERED BY HABIT.

A Wisconsin teacher maintains that there is altogether too much association of ideas without a proper understanding of their relative meanings. To remedy this among his class he has instituted a series of questions calculated to make the unthinking pupil feel very foolish after reflection. Here is what happened yesterday:

"George Washington's... What food article of superior excellence was General Lee Wallace's book named after? And not a voice was raised from the chorus which replied—HEN HILL FLOHIE.

Style. The literary architecture, if it is to be rich and expressive, involves not only foresight of the end in the beginning, but also development or growth of design in the process of execution.

No. Fools, like children, may always tell the truth, as the proverb says, but that is not the reason they are fools.

JANESVILLE VICTOR OVER BELOIT 4 TO 1

Keeps Second Place with Average of 571—Rockford Still Leads in Trolley League.

By a score of 4 to 1 Janesville defeated Beloit in an interurban trolley league ball game at Yost's park yesterday afternoon. The victory was well earned and the game pleased a good-sized crowd of spectators that assembled in spite of the wilting heat. The result keeps Janesville in second place in the league, Rockford having maintained first by defeating Beloit 9 to 3. The box scores, summaries and standing of the clubs follow:

JANESVILLE MACHINE CO. ANNUAL PICNIC

Enjoyed by 300 at Yost's Park Saturday—Baseball Team Defeated Lewis Knitting Co. Nine.

Employees of the Janesville Machine Co. enjoyed their annual picnic at Yost's Park on Saturday. Fully three hundred were in attendance and the outdoor entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by all of the participants. A baseball game between a nine picked from the Machine Co.'s force and the Lewis Knitting Co. aggregation aroused unusual interest. Thomas Butters and George Drummond composed the Machine Co.'s battery and Charles Mills and John Hall were on deck for the "Lewisites." The score was 1 to 4 at the end of the ninth inning and likewise in the tenth but a base hit by William Carroll in the eleventh inning, with three runners on base, brought in the much-needed fifth run and the Machine Co. was victor 5 to 4.

National Association May Resolve to Have Government Prove Charges Brought Against Carriers.

Canton, O., Sept. 2.—For the past twenty-four hours there has been an almost continuous line of letter carriers arriving in this city. They came from all parts of the country to take part in a big parade today and the annual convention of their national association, which will be in session during the greater part of the week. A number of important subjects will engage the attention of the convention. The Denver delegates have come armed with a resolution asking the association to investigate the charges of several carriers in the Denver office and also to pass a resolution demanding that any government employee having charges preferred against him shall be furnished with the evidence on which the charges are based.

Paving Streets with Gold Ore. West Denver is soon to boast of having probably the only streets on this earthly globe paved with gold. While workmen the other day were unloading disintegrating granite shipped from South park for the surfacing of the district between south Eleventh and Larimer streets, they found rock which contained what looked to be free gold. Samples were turned over to experts, who pronounced that to the naked eye it was unmistakably gold ore. This opinion was strengthened by the fact of material having been secured in South park. This district was recently examined by mining engineers representing the chamber of commerce, who reported that the district was an unexplored region of wealth. Mayor Speer has some samples of the rock which he intends to have tested by an assayer. In the meantime this presumably valuable material will be placed on the streets unless so much ore is found by the assayer to warrant it being placed in the city treasury instead.—Denver Republican.

STATE CONVENTION OF LEAF GROWERS

S. D. Kump, Secretary of Wisconsin Society of Equity, Sends Out Announcements.

To the Secretaries and Members of the A. S. of E. Tobacco Department of Wisconsin S. D. Kump, states secretary says: "I most respectfully call your attention to the fact that you are earnestly requested to send a full delegation to attend the state meeting of the Tobacco Growers' Department at Madison on the 8th and 9th of October, 1907. This will undoubtedly be the largest gathering of tobacco growers held in the state. It is doubtful that all growers who are growers of tobacco will be able to be present, but it will be remembered, however, that by a special act passed by the last state convention, all local and county secretaries, by virtue of their office, are duly authorized delegates to all conventions inside of the state, and to elect as many more as their local or county may choose. Their expenses to be paid by the local or county respectively.

The principal object of this meeting is to develop and adopt a feasible plan to control the marketing of our tobacco. Also to make arrangements for the handling and storing of same if found necessary.

If there are any of your members who have not pledged their tobacco as yet, I hope they will respond at once and send the pledges to me together with the average price which are the only source of revenue this department has for its maintenance. Remember the pledge! Holders you only until the 9th of October, 1907.

Delegates will also be elected to the National Convention of Tobacco Growers which is to be held the 30th of October at Shelbyville, Kentucky. A full delegation is desired from all local and county unions in the tobacco districts of Wisconsin to meet at Madison, October 8th and 9th.

SILK THREAD IN NEST.

Bright Material Made Trouble for Home-Building Robins.

"It is astonishing," says a bird lover, "where and how birds manage to find or steal the variety of materials they use in building their nests. Two robins are now building in a tree close to my window, and besides twigs, blades of dried grass, horse hair, and other things that might be expected, one of them brought a skein of blue silk thread. It had been stolen from somewhere, and was accidentally regarded by both the robins as a very valuable acquisition, for after bringing it to the nest there was a long, animated discussion as to what ought to be done with it. It would not do to use it on the outside, for its color was so bright that it would attract attention to the nest, so after a world of talk about it, the silk was finally disposed of by twisting it round and round on the inside. There it became the cause of further trouble, for the male bird, leaving the nest, found it tangled with his claws, and pulled it nearly all out, being roundly scolded by the lady bird for his carelessness. It took hours to put it all back again and prevent a recurrence of a similar accident, but things were finally adjusted to the satisfaction of both birds, and though I could not see, I think they covered up the silk with bits of paper, for I saw them carrying fragments of newspaper and wrappers and apparently very busy stowing them away inside."

FOOT BADLY CUT IN SHARP HAY MOWER

Frank Pascoe Brought Home From Byron, Ill., Where He Was Injured While Working in Harvest Field.

Frank Pascoe, a well known Janesville boy who was formerly employed as a fireman on the St. Paul road, was brought home from Byron, Ill., yesterday with a badly cut foot, having been injured while at work in the harvest field. Pascoe was helping run a mower about five miles from Byron, a small station between Davis Junction and Savanna. A new knife was being put in the machine and tried when the team, hitched to it, started and the two Pascoes could get out of the way his left leg was caught. A long gash was cut in the foot and he had to be carried to the house. A physician was immediately phoned for and arrived within half an hour but the loss of blood had been so great that the injured man was in a dead faint. Fresh blood, wounds and bone were cut. Though the accident occurred a week ago it was not possible to move Pascoe till yesterday, when he was brought here by his brother, Charles, who went to Byron Saturday. He is at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lydia Pascoe, 107 Center avenue and Dr. Wendell is in attendance. He found that unless Pascoe is able to move his foot soon it will be necessary to open the wound and redress it. Though Pascoe will be laid up for some time it is not thought that he will be permanently lamed.

looks as a symbol of excellence with-beauty a dangerous gift. The mother

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Buffalo blazed forth its Old Home Week welcome last night to the thousands who have returned for the seven days' festival, huge electric arches in the streets and squares being lighted and thousands of lights adorn-

Throughout today the various registry stations have been crowded with home-comers writing their addresses in all parts of the United States and Canada. The celebration today was given over largely to the labor organizations of Buffalo and vicinity. There were also numerous athletic events and the Italian societies dedicated a monument to the composer Verdi.

staged, and all manner of strange and multi-provoking adventures tell the two heroes made famous by the artist, Ogier.

Tuesday Night.
The widely heralded song play success, "Coming Thro' the Rye," will have its first presentation in this city and will formally open the season at the Myers theatre tomorrow evening.
The cast includes Cecil Lane who created and played leading parts in "The Royal Chef," "The Captive," and "The Time, the Place, and the Girl." William Elby Hatch, last seen here in "The Burgomaster," original company.

Miss Alma Youlin, the gifted singer who appeared here in "The Burgomaster" two years ago, E. H. Calvert of the original "Arizona" company; Miss Florence Townsend, Just J. Cooper, Lyndon Drew, Alice Sol-vay, and numerous other notable.
There is a big beauty chorus and expense has not been spared in fitting out the piece with a most elaborate scenic investiture. All the scenes are held in fashionable Newport, affording opportunity for the introduction of valued and gorgeous costumes. This biggest play was to have been brought here last season but its big hit in the east made it necessary to cancel all western dates. It is hardly necessary to say that George V. Hobart is the librettist and A. Baldwin Shome, the composer, that the play sharply with bright lines and tunc-ful lyrics; and that it is put on under the direction of the Block Amusement Co.

"The Irish Pawnbrokers" is Murphy, Murphy and Murphy's broad, winner again this season. In creating their vehicle for them they commissioned Mr. Edgar Selous, who is the author of many successful farce comedies, to fit them with a vehicle in line with their former successes, and to say that Mr. Selous has achieved their purpose is drawing it mildly. He has, undoubtedly, given them the best vehicle as to comedy situations, they have ever had; the piece is intensely funny and has a fairly good plot, upon which hinges most of the comedy situations. "The Irish Pawnbrokers" will be presented at the Myers theatre
Thursday, Sept. 5.

WHAT IS A WANT AD?

Nine out of ten people will answer that question this way:
"Why, it's a little advertisement for Help Wanted or Situation Wanted."

Yes, it is. But is that all? Did you ever stop to think of the many uses to which these little Want Ads may be put?

Here is a list of the classification under which Want Ads can be inserted in The Gazette at a moderate cost and with the assurance of practically certain results.

You can count on your fingers the number of folks who at some time or other could not use the classified columns of The Gazette to advantage in filling a Want.

Consider for a moment the scope of this list:

Real Estate—For Sale or Rent.
Business Places—Salo or Rent.
Ground Rents, Mortgages, etc.
Real Estate—Suburban and Country.
Offices.
Stables.
Painters and Decorators.
Painters' Supplies, etc.

Their Superiority.
Next to a big black eagle and billiards, books are Mark Twain's chief diversion. Aside from the pleasure he gets out of them, the humorist has discovered that they possess an unusual trait.
"My books are my best friends,"
said he, not long ago at Quarry Farm, his summer home near Elmira, N. Y., as his eyes swept row after row of attractive looking volumes. "When I tire of them I can shut them up."

TOUCHED TILL SYSTEMATICALLY

HENRY MICKA MAKES CONFESSIONS TO AUTHORITIES.

ROBBED DEPOT IN DAYLIGHT

Admits Larceny to Amount of $215—Pleaded Guilty to Charges in Court—Sentenced Tomorrow.

Henry Micka has confessed to being the bold daylight burglar who visited the St. Paul passenger depot Friday noon and also to have systematically touched the till there, altogether committing larceny to the amount of $215. These admissions he made to Marshal William Appleby and Detective Casey of the C. M. & St. P. railway company. On the charge of larceny from a building, which is burlary, he was brought into municipal court this morning and entered a plea of guilty. Sentences will be imposed upon him tomorrow morning.
The law orders a term of from one to three years for the offense which he stands convicted of.

Broken Key Only Clue.
On Friday afternoon last Christian Gomez, ticket agent at the St. Paul depot, notified the police that the office had been entered at noon, while he and Operator George Davey were at dinner. The lock on the door had been broken but he believed the intruder or intruders had been frightened away as it appeared that nothing within the office had been disturbed.

Later a broken piece of a Yale key was found in the lock to the cash drawer. This was taken by Marshal Appleby to the various places where keys are sold in the city and it was discovered that such a key had been purchased the day previous by one answering young Micka's description.
Officer Brown was sent out for Micka and brought him to Appleby's office.
Micka said he had purchased a key for a buffet at his home and the key was there then. A visit to the house by Officer Brown proved that there was no key there and that the buffet did not even have a lock.

First Admitted Larceny of $30.
While Brown was absent from the station the Marshal was putting Micka through a sweating process in which direct questions were the principal form of attack. Finally seeing his way soon to be cornered, Micka confessed to entering the depot. Then it was known that the money had been taken. Micka was sent back to work and Detective Casey, who has headquarters at Milwaukee, was notified by Casey set "Ticket Agent" Gomez at work checking his cash and accounts.
Micka was again put under arrest and Detective Casey and Marshal Appleby resumed the sweating procedure.
Micka broke down. First he admitted taking three ten dollar bills on Friday. These were removed from the bottom of a pile amounting to over $500 and so the loss was not noticed until the money had been checked.

Had Many Luxuries.
All Saturday afternoon Micka worked and his confession of larceny and yesterday morning found a shortage of $215. This evidence was put before young Micka and he then said it was seventy and not thirty dollars that he took. Saying that he would make a complete admission of his operations on the depot till he then confessed to carrying on a systematic burglary during the past two months. Being a career and not a clerk he had much work to do in the office and while moving about he boldly, but carefully, reached into the cash drawer when Agent Gomez and Operator Davey had their backs turned. As all employees were trusted the shortages from time to time were laid to a mistake made in sending tickets to Koughton. Micka noted down what he had done with the money received from the till. At together he accounted for $115. All but a $22 buffet, other pieces of furniture, a $5 pipe, a trip to Milwan-kee and clothing for himself and wife.

Wife Weeps at City Hall.
As today is a legal holiday the municipal court rooms were locked.
Micka desired immediate trial and at his request and the pleas of his relatives Judge Field opened court.
Waiving examination, Micka pleaded guilty to the charge of entering the depot Friday noon and committing larceny to the amount of seventy dollars, he received a sentence to the county jail. In court this morning his mother, brother of one year, sister and brother were present. All remained composed until Officer Champion led the prisoner from the city hall and then his wife broke into tears. Micka is about twenty-one years of age and was married by permission of his mother.

M. Murphy of Peoria, Ill., visited

Sunday and will leave for Peoria tonight.

BIG OPERA COMPANY
IN REHEARSAL HERE

Finishing Touches on "Coming Thro' the Rye" Are Being Put on by Management—Final Tryout in Costume Tonight.

Song by the chorus: "Money, money, money is the answer all the time." Excited interruption by Stage Manager George Stevens: "Get into that!—If you girls aren't going to sing you can just put your trunks out the back door and you're a nightly slight nearer Chicago now than you'll be for a long time." Repetition and more business. Enter Miss Florence Townsend on a white broncho. Stage director spins around like a top and makes a running jump to the platform, where he waves his arms and finally sputters "Light!" Repetition of the scene with improvements. Miss Townsend sings: "I'm not the girl from Dixie." The girl from the Golden West." The theatricals between Cecil Lena and Riley Hatch, more business and snatches of refrains. At a body meet a body containing three the Rye," introduces Miss Anna Youlin.

Until twelve o'clock last evening the newly-organized company which is to make its first bow in "Coming Thro' the Rye" at the Myers theatre tomorrow evening was going through its rigorous course of training under the exacting director who is not so harsh as his words might indicate and who enjoys the confidence of all the players. Miss Florence Holbrook (Mrs. Cecil Lena) watched the rehearsal from a box. She and her husband have left the LaSalle theatre management after starting together in Chicago four straight years, with but one brief interruption when they came here with "The Royal Chet" the first time, and in the course of a few weeks they will have the leading parts in a new musical play to be put on in the same company. E. H. Colvert, who plays the English lord part, came down from the stage when his turn was over to ask about his old Spanish War associates, Ross King and "Sheep" Sheldon. He is a Madison boy and has been playing in straight comedy up to this season.
Miss Anna Youlin recalled her last appearance here in "The Perfidian Land." "We must have been hooded here for the company broke up shortly after we left Janesville," Riley Hatch, the musky framed actor who takes the cowboy part, tallied recounting about his old days in the Julian academy of art in Paris with Richard Mansfield and his last appearance here seven years ago in "The Banker's Daughter."

An open in "plain clothes," minus
all the glamour and glitz of travel, and with the frequent interruptions and debates between the stage manager and his pupils is not very coherent but it was plain to be seen that the company is already well drilled, that they can sing, that the place is full of sparkling lines and that it will delight the big audience that gathers there tomorrow night.

M. Murphy of Peoria, Ill., visited with his family, 7 Jeffers drive, over Sunday and will leave for Peoria tonight.

DEDRICK BROS.

BATH DEVISED FOR PIGS.

Ingenuous Arrangement Credited to a Missouri Stockman.

The unfortunate pig has always had the reputation for being the most un-cleanly animal in existence. This is not entirely the fault of the pig, as his environment is generally accountable for his cleanliness. Pigs seldom attempt to give the pigs a bath, as it is almost impossible to catch and hold them, even for a minute. Notwithstanding, a Missouri stockman tackled the problem and succeeded in planning an apparatus by which the pigs are given a good washing before they are slaughtered. It should also prove equally as useful at other times. The construction and operation of the dipping tank, as it is called, will be plainly evident by a glance at the accompanying illustration. Resting on the ground is the water tank, which is connected to an inclined inlet and outlet. On the incline of the outlet are any stairs to assist the pig in ascending. In preparation for his "bath" the pig is forced down the incline into the water, and if his common sense does not direct him on to the incline he is prodded from behind with a bar.

In fact, in time this device may become very fashionable with pigs, and it would not be surprising to hear of them taking their daily "dip" hereafter.

Plain Entertaining.

Folk in "society" are now entertaining on a plainer scale. They ask fewer friends at a time, but have more parties. There is not the osten-tationous competition that there has been, and "crushes" are no longer necessary to the popularity of a hostess.

Shocks to the Car.

A succession of shocks. The car, unlike the eye, has no lid under which it may go to sleep; and, indeed, it has been proved that the sense of hearing is at work just after sleep comes on.

CZAR VENTURES TO ENTER HIS CAPITAL

ATTENDS CONSECRATION OF MEMORIAL TO GRANDFATHER.

CITY FULL OF SOLDIERS

Brilliant Scene in Church Erected on the Spot Where Alexander Was Killed by Nihilists.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—For the second time since "Red Sunday" (January 22, 1906) Emperor Nicholas Sunday entered the capital to attend the consecration of a church to his grandfather, Alexander II, who was assassinated in March, 1881, on the spot where the edifice was raised.

The date of the trip, coinciding with the conspiracy trial just closed here, plainly was designed to raise the loyalty of the army and the people. It was a complete success and no untoward incident occurred.

The police neglected no precaution to insure the safety of the emperor, and even went so far as to thoroughly search the city and inspect the passports of suspicious individuals.

Condemned were stationed in every window facing the route over which the imperial procession passed, and owners of houses were forbidden to open windows under pain of a heavy fine. Bridges and river traffic was entirely suspended, the banks of the Neva were lined with marine guards and torpedo boats patrolled the river.

No Salutes Are Fired.

The imperial party arrived from Pskov by train, not a single salute being fired during their whole stay. The emperor and his party disembarked from a yacht at the admiralty and entered an inconspicuous launch, landing at the Grand Duke Constantine's palace. Thence they proceeded to the cathedral of the way to the memorial church in carriages.

Though the church faces the Nevsky prospect, it is conveniently reached from the Neva across the Mars field drill ground, where a new road, flanked by rows of flags, had been made for their majesties.

After two months of daily rains the sky cleared and the sun shone upon the brilliant scene of nearly a hundred detachments of troops with widely varying uniforms stationed along the line of march. The emperor's arrival was announced by cheers from the troops, the public looking on indifferently. The big churchyard, where the imperial party arrived, at the hour set for the function, was picturesquely bordered by platoons of cuirassiers, grenadiers and dragoons in multi-colored uniforms, waving plumes, bayonets and silver breastplates.

Splendid Scene in Church.

After walking around the church and saluting the guards, the emperor entered the edifice at the south door. The scene inside was one of great splendor. An abundance of light, streaming through the lofty windows, illuminated the four immense mosaic columns around which were grouped 2,000 representatives of the ruling classes. The emperor and the empress occupied the so-called patriarch's place at the right of the altar, where they were visible only from the diplomatic loge. A score of grand dukes and duchesses encircled the imperial pair, and further back were courtiers, court dames, provincial governors and a group of army officers.

Premier Stolypin was the only minister to attend the ceremonies, all of the others being abroad. Mr. Rildis, the American ambassador, and Sir Arthur Nicolson, the British ambassador, and the civil element were conspicuously absent, though millions of rubles were subscribed to the church fund by peasants and others who were not invited.

Empress Sees Sad.

The empress seemed to be in excellent spirits, but the empress had the same crown, and look which has often been remarked. The emperor wore a simple black uniform with a dark blue tunic and trousers. Aeronauts his shoulders was the blue sash of St. Andrew. The empress was crowned in white silk and wore a white ostrich feather hat and a string of diamonds. She also wore the sash of St. Andrew. Both their majesties remained standing throughout the ceremony, which lasted three and a quarter hours, the empress slightly leaning on her parasol.

Arabs Planning General Attack.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The Matin's Casablanca correspondent says that the tribesmen, who now form ten camps, are holding a council of war to decide the plan of a general attack for Tuesday. All holding back will be massacred. The Arabs say that their losses last Wednesday amounted to 80.

Killed in Motor Car Accident.

Elmira, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A powerful touring car ploughed over a 15-foot embankment at Elmira, near Elmira, Sunday, killing H. B. Smith, of Ticonderoga, and injuring four others. One of the injured men, John Henry of Canandaigua, is likely to die. The others are not seriously hurt.

Bron Killed in Auto Race.

Urbino, Italy, Sept. 2.—The automobile race for the Florio cup was run Sunday and was won by an Italian, Minola. The contest was marred by several accidents, in one of which a well-known nobleman, Baron De Martino, was killed.

WILL TEACH RAILROADING.

E. R. Downup Appointed to Chair in Illinois University.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 2.—President Edmund J. James, of the University of Illinois, has announced the appointment of Prof. E. R. Downup as professor of railroad administration and management at the University of Illinois.

Prof. Downup was born in England of American parents, and got his education at the University of Manchester and at the Royal Technical college of Manchester. After graduation he spent considerable time studying operation, construction and management of railroads in the United Kingdom, in France and in Germany and was for a time an officer on an English railway. He then spent a year in the United States, making a comparative study of the railroad systems of this country with those on the continent. Three years ago he was brought to this country permanently by President Harper, of the University of Chicago, to take charge of the railroad courses at that university.

PUBLIC PRINTER PRAISED.

President Considers Him Efficient and Honest, Says Loeb.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Recent published rumors that Public Printer Stillings had displeased the president and was to be supplanted, were the occasion Sunday for the issuance of a statement complimentary to Mr. Stillings by Secretary Loeb.

"The president has not the faintest idea of displacing Mr. Stillings," said Secretary Loeb. "It follows as a matter of course that in bringing order out of the utter chaos that had existed in the government printing office a certain amount of ill feeling would be aroused on the part of the disgruntled employees."

"The president feels that Mr. Stillings has discharged his duties with courage, efficiency and honesty, and that he has now put the office on a thoroughly businesslike and economical basis. Instead of being criticized, Mr. Stillings is entitled to great credit for what he has accomplished and he continues to have the president's entire confidence."

Breaks His Neck in Diving.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 2.—Joseph L. Brinkley, right fielder for the Savannah team in the South Atlantic league, broke his neck at Tybee island Sunday afternoon by diving into shallow water. Other bathers saw him as he lay dying on the bottom, but he had announced that he was going to make a long stay under water and they thought nothing of the matter until some minutes had passed. Then they drew him up to find him dead.

Another Bomb in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—A dynamite bomb exploded in the front yard of the residence of ex-Sheriff James Pease Sunday night. It broke many windows in the house and tore a hole in the lawn. The members of the Pease family were at home in bed and none was injured. The police have a theory that the bomb was another of the series in the dynamite war of gamblers, and was exploded in front of Mr. Pease's residence by mistake.

Old Methodist Minister Dead.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—Rev. Dr. John Matthews, aged 81 years, the oldest minister in point of service in the Methodist Episcopal church, south, died Sunday at the home of his son, W. T. Matthews. SOUVENIR HUNTERS STRIP THE FYLGIA

TAKE EVERYTHING PORTABLE FROM PRINCE'S VESSEL.

PART OF BIG GUN NABBED

Royal Visitor Forced to Fight His Way Through Great Mob of Sightseers on Landing Stage.

New York, Sept. 2.—Prince Wilhelm of Sweden put in his customary busy day in New York Sunday. He attended divine services on board the Swedish cruiser Fylgia, entertained a small party of friends at luncheon on board the ship, was almost mobbed by the crowd when he came ashore, motored through Central park and in the evening gave a small dinner at the Hotel Astor.

The Fylgia will sail for Boston Monday afternoon unless it is found that some of the important parts of her machinery are missing. Sunday was reception day aboard the cruiser and following the custom established when Admiral Juhn's Japanese squadron and the Duke of Abruzzi's Italian cruiser visited New York, it seemed as if every visitor wanted to carry away a souvenir.

Scramble for Souvenirs.

Wine glasses, dishes, sailors' caps, an officer's sword and scabbard—in fact practically everything portable lying around loose aboard the ship was taken. One enthusiastic souvenir hunter even carried away the breast-plate of the big gun in the forward barbettes. It is estimated that 10,000 people visited the cruiser Saturday and Sunday, and while the chief engineer believes his engines are still intact, the weight of the articles taken by relic hunters was almost great enough to make a change in the registered displacement of the ship.

Prince Wilhelm and his party, including the Swedish minister and Madame De Lagergren and the Swedish consul and Mrs. Charlholm, were present at the Sunday services on the ship, the prince taking his regular place among the junior officers. The service, that of the Swedish Lutheran church, was conducted by Rev. Mauritz Stohpe, pastor of the Swedish Gustava Adolphus church in East Twenty-second street. Dr. C. E. Lindberg, president of the Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., also spoke briefly. At the close of the service Commodore Lindberg, commander of the Fylgia, rose and in a loud voice said: "God save the king and fatherland," a sentiment which was repeated after him by the officers and crew in unison.

Nearly Mobbed by Sightseers.

When the launch bearing the prince and the party reached the landing stage at the foot of Seventy-ninth street a great crowd had gathered. Two policemen detailed to keep the crowd in order were swept aside and the prince was forced to fight his way through the eager crowd to reach his automobile. The people fought to get close to him, to shake his hand or to touch his clothing. With his aide, Prince Wilhelm struggled manfully against the crowd and finally, breathless, his clothing awry, he succeeded in escaping.

The prince's proposed trip to West Point has been abandoned because of the lack of time. Monday morning he will inspect a model monument house, the Swedish employment bureau at the large office and the emigrant receiving station at Ellis island. In the afternoon he will witness a drill of the fire department and see a few of the sights he has missed. In the evening he will dine with the Old German Students' association at the Arion club and will leave at midnight for Niagara Falls.

MYSTERIOUS NEW YORK FIRE.

Started by Explosion in Factory Where There Was Strike.

New York, Sept. 2.—The originating in a mysterious explosion Sunday destroyed the interior of the five story factory of Herman Jacob & Sons in East One Hundred Second street. The cause of the explosion is not known, but a member of the firm stated that there was a stock of goods in the building worth at least $100,000. In addition to this all the machinery in the building was destroyed. The explosion is a mystery as no chemicals were kept in the building.

The Jacobs firm has recently had much trouble with strikers, necessitating the employment of a number of private guards and the detail of several policemen who were kept near the building.

Lightning Fatal in Michigan.

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 2.—Dort Woodruff, aged 35, was killed Sunday when lightning wrecked a small amusement stand at Winthrop beach. Norman High, aged 22, was probably fatally paralyzed by a stroke of lightning which hit the gun he was carrying in his shoulder while hunting at Tobago bay.

Veteran Milwaukee Banker Dies.

Milwaukee, Sept. 2.—Samuel Marshall, founder of the Marshall & Halsey bank, and the oldest banker in Milwaukee, died Sunday at his home on Prospect avenue at the age of 87 years.

New York's Cemeteries.

New York city has 3,115 acres of land in cemeteries—enough to bury the dead of the city for 100 years.

GREAT ATHLETIC CARNIVAL NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP MEET AT JAMESTOWN FAIR.

Notable Performances by Amateurs Expected on Friday and Saturday—West Well Represented.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 2.—The event of the week in amateur athletics will be the national championship meet at the Jamestown exposition Friday and Saturday, in which trial men from all parts of the country are entered.

The contests will take on an international aspect from the fact that two Irishmen have crossed the ocean to compete. They are "Con" Leahy, who won the high jump in the Olympic games at Athens last year, and Dennis Murray, once the champion sprinter of Ireland, who will try for the all-around championship.

San Francisco will have a strong representation to try for honors against the athletes of the east and the middle west. Ralph Rose, the weight thrower, after his two years' retirement, is expected to come back to the games and give Champion Wesley Coe, of Boston, a hard fight. The Californians will put their trust in Al Shaw against John Flanagan and Matt McGraw with the hammer, and in Charles Purson, who did 9.45 seconds and beat Archie Hahn two years ago in the 100-yards dash. Dan Kelly, of Oregon, is another westerner who may make the easterners hustle. He is the man who did the sprint in 9.35 seconds at the Northwestern championships last year. Practically the same team of the Irish-American club that defeated the New York athletic club's best men two weeks ago at Travers island will compete.

Taken together, with the premier athletes of the country taking part, the games at Jamestown should develop some wonderful performances.

Alfred Ponds Grant, rector of St. James Episcopal church, will conduct the service. By request there will be no address. The choir of St. James church will sing the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light."

Following a brief period during which the features of the dead actor will be viewed by the assembly, a funeral procession will be formed for the burial place in Gardner cemetery, which is across the street from the Mansfield home. Grand Trunk Train Wrecked.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—Grand Trunk passenger train No. 8, east bound, which left Chicago at 11 a. m., Sunday with seven coaches, collided Sunday evening with the rear end of a freight train which had broken in two on a grade near Royal Oak, about 15 miles from this city, and was wrecked. No one was killed and but two persons received injuries of any consequence.

Exception to Rule.

The patience that causes a man to sit on a dock all day waiting for a bite is certainly not a virtue.

PRESIDENT IS BUSY WRITING SPEECHES

PREPARING FOR HIS TRIP IN MID WEST AND SOUTH.

FIRST TALK AT CANTON

Address At Unveiling of McKinley Monument Sept. 30—Boat Ride Down River from Keokuk.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 2.—To prepare a half dozen addresses, each of which will be read very generally by a nation of eighty million people, and all to be delivered within the week from Sept. 30 to Oct. 6, is the task to which President Roosevelt is now devoting several hours of his time each night from 9 o'clock until bed time.

Besides the half dozen set speeches, the president will be called upon for as many more extemporaneous talks, and these, too, require some attention, although not a finished preparation.

The president is to terminate his vacation with a dash through the middle west and the south. He will participate first in the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the national monument to the late President McKinley at Canton, O., Sept. 30. Naturally the address will be of a memorial character, but of national breadth and interest.

Takes River Boat At Keokuk.

At Keokuk, Ia., Mr. Roosevelt will spend again the following day, and while no limitation has been made as to the character of this address, it is believed that it will deal with the problems of the day. At this place the president will begin his cruise of the Mississippi, aboard the steamer bearing the river's name. River steamboat travel gives no opportunity for rear platform talks and handshaking with eager crowds, but it has been indicated that many persons will find the river banks just for a glimpse of the president as he floats by.

The river trip will be punctuated with functions at St. Louis, where another prepared speech will be delivered, at Cairo, and at Memphis, where the cruise will end.

Speeches on Way Home.

On the way by train back to Washington, there are indications that the president will yield to the importunities which are coming to him for more talk and that he will speak to the people of Nashville and Chattanooga, or some other selected point.

Already there are indications that a tax will be made on the president's stored up vitality gained from the three and a half months he will have spent at his quiet summer home on Sagamore hill.

Fight Despite Sheriff's.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 2.—A dozen Minnesota sheriffs boarded the steamboat carrying two prize fighters which left here Sunday morning, determined to prevent the pulling off of a match that had been scheduled to take place somewhere between Minneapolis and this city. The boat dropped down the Mississippi river and a landing was made on the Wisconsin side, where the fight took place while the Minnesota sheriffs looked on powerless to prevent the contest. The fight was between Ben Tremblor of St. Paul and "Griff" Jones, a Minneapolis negro. Tremblor was given the decision in the fourth round.

Railroad Bridge Dynamited.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—A new bridge on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad over Corry street, Darby, a suburb, was blown up about 1 o'clock Sunday morning by unknown persons. The framework of the bridge was completely wrecked by dynamite.

Premier of Persia Assassinated.

Tehran, Sept. 2.—Mirza Ali Akbar Khan, premier and minister of the interior, was shot and instantly killed as he was leaving the national council Saturday night.

Clinched.

The insurance agent had exhausted his arts. With tears welling from his eyes and in a voice quivering with emotion he had recited the harrowing tale of widow and orphans in dire distress through the untimely death of their thoughtless protector. But the farmer was unmoved. "None," he said, "I'll not take any today," he said, and reached for his red bandanna. "But," said the wily agent, "with every policy goes an allowance, a plug of Greenleaf, a brass watch, an accordion and a bottle of liver medicine, besides a brass band to lead your funeral procession. 'Gosh dang!' came the reply. 'Give me one. Nobody can ever say Joshua Hay neglected the welfare of his loved ones.'"

The Kaiser and Mr. Carnegie.

During the first meeting of Emperor William and Andrew Carnegie on the deck of the Hohenzollern at Kiel, when there came a pause in the conversation, Mr. Carnegie, in a candid spirit of banter, said to the emperor: "You know, your majesty, that I never earned very much for King." "But there was one King you cared a great deal for," said the emperor quickly. "And who was that?" demanded Mr. Carnegie. "Robert Bruce," "Your majesty is very right," laughed Mr. Carnegie. "Robert Bruce is buried in my town."

An Exhibition Stunt.

"Malpodes are the fourth and fifth pairs of head appendages of chelipeds." "What's that to me?" "Nothing. I occasionally like to display a bit of knowledge that nobody else can possibly have."

Happy Thought.

If dreams came true there would be a great reform in diet.—Life.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

No skin disease can exist without an underlying cause, and in most instances that cause is either a humor in the blood or an excess of fiery acids in this vital fluid. These humors and acids get into the blood, generally because of an inactive and sluggish condition of those members whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse of the body. This unhealthy matter is left in the system to sour and ferment, and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood, in its effort to rid itself of this foreign matter, begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin. These coming in contact with the delicate tissues and fibers with which the skin is so abundantly supplied produces irritation and inflammation on the surface, and Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, or some other troublesome and disfiguring skin disease is the result. External applications, while they soothe the itching, and are beneficial in keeping the skin clean, can never cure skin affections, because they do not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only permanent cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers, is the best treatment. It cures by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the circulation so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the existing acid matter, is nourished and soothed by a cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, removes the foreign matter and thereby permanently cures every form of skin trouble. Do not expect to cure a blood disease with local applications alone, but begin the use of S. S. S., and when you have removed the cause the skin will be free from disease. DRIVER TELLS OF STRAIN.

Nervous Tension of Man at Wheel of Automobile.

The nervous tension under which the driver of an automobile races has been graphically described by two Vanderbilt cup chauffeurs. Clement says: "When you first start, the ground seems to be rising up in front of you, as if to hit you in the face—that is, until you get your auto even adjusted. But even then there's always the thrill, and you haven't time for anything but the thrill and the watching of the long, narrow road in front. You haven't time to see what is on one side or the other. The people—that's about all we had on the sides in the Vanderbilt cup races—just seem to be a black-and-white border to the dark streak in front. Yes; you hear them shout, but by the time you realize it you are gone." And Wagner describes his sensations in driving as follows: "Beginning the eighth lap nearly eight minutes in the lead, the mental and physical strain became acute. My brain was in a dizzy whirl, and my hunger amounted almost to famine. But the price of satisfying it was prohibitive when every minute counted. The constant crashing and lunging of the car, the vigilance required at the frequent turns, the haunting fear of fatalities, and the anxiety regarding tires and mechanism were so exhausting that we lost over two minutes on the eighth round. Hunger remorseless and fanged was gnawing, gnawing, gnawing with almost sinister persistence, as it seemed. So we began the ninth and final round."

WAS GIVEN WRONG STEER.

Cleveland Man the Victim of Mean Practical Joker.

A Cleveland (Ohio) man was coming down from Toledo the other day when he noticed a little crowd on an station platform and at once concluded it meant the departure of a bride and groom. The train only stopped for a minute or two but the Cleveland man had time to see a lot of handshaking, and then, as the train started, a young fellow on the platform thrust a card through the open window and said, "Say, old man, hand that to the couple who just got aboard, won't you?" The Cleveland man nodded and the train sped on. He looked at the card. It bore the word "Congratulations!" Then he went up the aisle to where the newcomers were seated and smilingly handed the card to the bridegroom. "What's this for?" growled the stranger. "Just married, aren't you?" the Cleveland man chuckled. "Just married!" roared the stranger. "Just married! Why, you miserable shrimp, me an' my wife here are havin' a spat at this very moment over what we are goin' to do with our 21-year-old son! Just married! You meanly little—" But the Cleveland man had fled. And now he vows he'll never again be made a catapaw for another practical joker.

John Henry In Bohemia

By HUGH McHUGH
(George V. Hubert)

Boys! let me put you wise! If you want to keep off the griddle don't ever try to show your shy little lady friend how the birdies sing in "Bohemia."

You'll get stung if you do. For the past six months Clara Jane has been handing out hints that she'd like to have me take her down the line and let her Oh, listen to the band! In one of those real devilish New York restaurants.

She intimated that she'd like to sit in the grand stand and hold the watch on those who are going the pace that kills.

She wanted to know if I thought she could toy with a tenderloin steak in a careless cafe without getting the call down from Uncle William.

Clara Jane's Uncle William hands out the lesson leaflets in Sunday school and wrestles the Golden Rule to a finish every Sabbath.

During the week he conducts a fire sale.

I told her I thought she could and she was pleased.

"I'm just crazy to take lunch, sometimes, among the Bohemians!" she gurgled.

I told her I thought she'd have a happier time if we tramped down to the tunnel and butted in among the Italians just as the 12 o'clock whistle blew, and she threw both lamps at me and good and hard.

A few days ago I took her to the matinee at "The New York" where you have to pinch off only 50 cents and then you're entitled to a wash around in parlor furniture and out up about eight dollars worth of comely. That "New York" thing is immense—believe me!

Everything else has faded away.

After the show we thought we'd put the pave for a few blocks and who should we run into but Bud Phillips.

Bud belongs to the Grand Lodge of Good Fellows.

So far as I can size him up the Good Fellow puts in 12 hours a day trying to stab himself to death with gin rickeys, and the other 12 are devoted to yelling for help and leewater.

This is not a tap on the door. Six on the knock.

It isn't my cue to aim the hammer. When it comes to falling off the water wagon I can do a bit of a specialty in grand and lofty tumbling that gets a loud hand from all the members of the High Tide association. So six on the knock.

"What Troupe is She Cutting Up With?"

His father cut out the breathing business about two years ago and left Bud $100,000 and a long dry spell on the inside.

Bud has been in the lake ever since. "Aw you wot!" said Bud. "Why, it's John Henry! touch thumbs, old pal!" and then in a side speech he wanted to know what troupe the author was cutting-up with.

If Clara Jane had heard him my flash would have hopped over the fence then and there.

But she didn't, so I introduced them and quietly tipped Bud off to the fact that it will be a case of wedding bells when Willie gets a wad—be nice! be nice!

And Bud woke up to the occasion. "You to the carryall!" he said, "I'll float you down to Muttelheimer's and we'll get busy with the beans!"

"He's out to cough for a few cookies," I explained, to Clara Jane. "I never heard of Muttelheimer's before," said Clara Jane, on the side.

"Your luck has given you a throw-down," I said.

"But I do hope it's Bohemian," she sighed.

"Sure!" I said. I hated to break her heart.

Muttelheimer's is one of those eateries where the waiters look wise because they can't speak English.

If you ask them a question they bark at you in German.

It's supposed to be Bohemian because there's sawdust on the floor and the floor wags and says, "Pro-ah!" before falling in the stuff that you swallow to-day and taste to-morrow.

Bud bunches his hits on the bell and the low-forehead has a Fitzsimmons hug on the order when they Muttelheimer's crawls into the harbor and drops anchor at our table.

I don't know how they ever pressed close enough to get on Bud's staff.

I spoke his name fast when I introduced him to Clara Jane but she was busy trying to live a swift life by or—dering a seltzer lemonade, so it didn't make much difference, anyway. "What is he?" she whispered after a bit, "a painter?"

"Oh! he's a painter all right," I said. "When some one leads him up to a tub."

"Watercolors or oil?" she asked. "Oil," I said. "Fusel oil."

"Has he ever done any good thing?" said she.

"Yes," I said. "Bud Phillips."

"Oh, I'm enjoying this so much! Who is the man with the fawn-like eyes and the long hair at that other table?" she whispered.

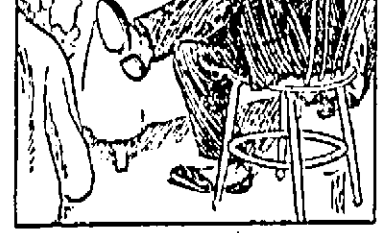

He was the night-watchman of the apartment house next door but I gave her an easy speech to the effect that he was Bill Beethoven, a grandson of old man Beethoven who wrote the wedding march and "Mah Rainbow Cook" and "Father Was a Gentleman When Mother Was Not Near," and several other gems.

She thought she was in Bohemia and having the time of her life, so I let her dream.

In the meantime Bud was busy trying to put out the fire in the well they used for a nook.

Every time a waiter looked over at our table Bud's roll would blaze up.

Clara Jane concluded she'd broaden out a bit on Art and the Old Masters

When the Head Waiter Deals Out the Check, Ike is the Quickest Talker in the Bunch.

so she asked Ike if he liked Rembrandt.

Ike looked at her out of the corner of one eye and said, "Mach 'bliged, but I'm up to here now!"

Then he went to sleep.

Bud was beginning to see double. Every once in a while he'd stop trying to whistle "Swanee, My Hot Tamale," and he'd look over at Clara Jane and hand her a sad, sad smile.

Then he'd press money in the waiter's hand and wait for his music cue.

Clara Jane had about decided that Bohemia was away up stage, but I wouldn't let go. I wanted her to get the lesson of her life, and that's where my finish began to get busy.

Tom Barclay walked into the subway, saw me and in a minute he was making the break of his life.

"Why, hello, John Henry!" said Tom. "Say, I saw her to-day—and she's immense! You've got a great eye, old man!"

I tossed off a few wicked winks on that great eye of mine but Tom went right along to the funeral.

"Lizzie B. is a peach, John Henry! You've got the eye for the good girls, all right, all right!" he chorled.

Clara Jane began to freeze.

I felt like a boiled potato in the hands of an Irish policeman.

"She's every bit to the good, old man!" Tom turned it on again; "she makes all the other birds chatter in the cage. And her feet—did you ever see such feet?"

I looked at Clara Jane's face, but there was no light in the window for me.

"You certainly picked out a warm proposition when you put your arms around Lizzie B. and I'm your friend for life for hauling me up in the chariot with you—what'll you have?" croaked Tom.

"Thirty-two bare feet," I whispered hoarsely; "but it all out!"

"Cut out nothing!" said the prize idiot; "we'll drink to Lizzie B. What'll your lady friend have?"

When Clara Jane arose she was a mass of icicles.

"Mr. John Henry! will you have the kindness to escort me to a car?"

"Mr. John Henry! Will You Have the Kindness to Escort Me to a Car?"

she said, giving me the glittering glances, "then you may return and discuss your affairs of the heart at your leisure."

"Stung!" said Bud, bringing his hand down on the table so vigorously that they woke up and ordered another high-ball.

As to the badlands! It took me three mortal hours to convince her that Tom was only talking about a horse.

Hereafter when Clara Jane yearns for something swift I'll take her down and let her watch the trolley cars go by.

THE ROUNDUP COLUMN.

West Serves Up Timely Pugilistic and Baseball Gossip.

There has been a great deal of talk about a new Pacific coast boxing club under the leadership of Jim Jeffries. The boxing expert will express no opinion on the matter other than to say that he has not fully considered it.

It is said that the good die young. What would Bob Fitzsimmons say if he heard that?

Back Davis, the famous old time baseball player, began life as an employee in a brewery. Many players associate themselves with a brewery at the other end of their careers.

Hal Chase of the New York Americans, the prince of first basemen, is one of the fashion plates of the league, for the big salary which he receives allows him to buy expensive fittings which are the envy of a good many ball players who are not so fortunate in the salary way as the young Calcuttins.

The other day Hal purchased a Panama hat, for which he gave $20, and when Charlie Griffith heard about it he said:

"Thirty dollars for a hat? Why, that's a crime, Hal!"

"Well," replied the youthful Chase as he began to arrange the leaves in a brand new pair of shoes, "the crime is on my own head."

It was during a game between the Philadelphia and the New Yorks, and umpire Tim Hurst was certainly having his work cut out for him. Every decision appeared to be the cause of protests from one side or the other, while the New York crowd was not after the little ballster handler.

Now, when the home team or, in fact, any other team gets after this game little old one may expect to see the kicking side get the worst end of it, as Tim will surely come out ahead on the deal.

On this particular day Clarke, the pitcher, had been giving Tim considerable back talk, and the more he talked the more of the home plate did the eccentric find have to cut before Hurst would credit him with a strike.

Finally Clarke became exasperated because Tim wouldn't call "em good when he cut the corners. When Hurst had called on a ball that had seemed to think ought to have been a strike, the exorbitant Clarke, throwing disrespect to the wind and with his face distorted with rage, ran up to where the umpire stood, back of the catcher, and in a voice that could be heard all over the grandstand, he shrieked:

"Look a-here, Tim Hurst, what are you trying to do? Do you want to make a fool out of me?"

"I do not, Mr. Clarke," replied Tim with mock politeness. "In your case I feel safe in allowing nature to take its course."

The Arabs of the Sahara desert prefer clops to any other means of fastening their horse. The clogged horse never breaks loose, and, the Arabs claim, loses a great many stable flies, while it remains free from risk of many accidents. is thus shackled for the first time, before his owner's tent, a young negro with a switch stands by to teach him to keep still. It is the negro's duty to correct him slightly if he attempts to lash out at anything passing behind or if he bites at his neighbors.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer thinks that "for all around battling and throwing the Cleveland catchers stand in a class alone." The New York Sun comes back with a claim that "the Giants have a pair that for brain work and general results leave the Cleveland trio at the distance pole, Bresnahan and Bowerman." All very good men, but why overlook Kling and Sullivan of the two Chicago teams? These two are the very cream of catchers.

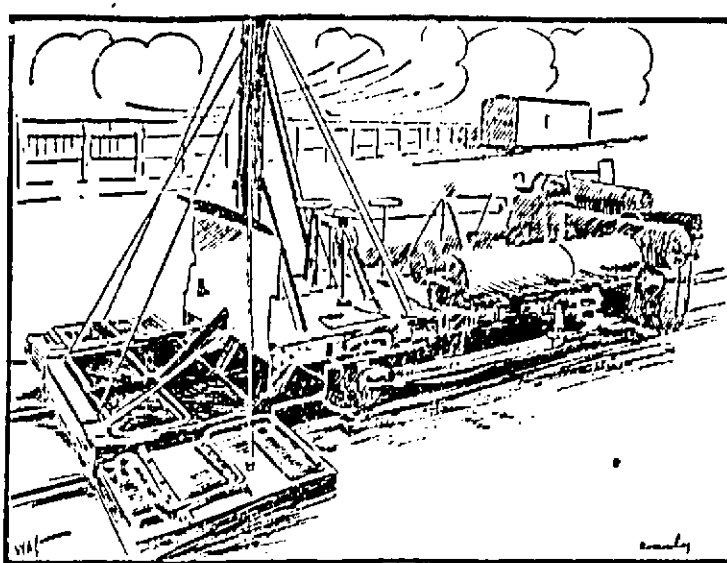

The Illinois senate bill No. 5 will allow motorists to indulge in a speed of twenty miles an hour on the country roads. The average pedestrian will wonder what was the necessity for obtaining permission for so recognized a custom.

A scandal in the Chicago National club—Landgren and Reibach almost came to blows at a recent dinner owing to a clash of opinion over the merits of Goldwyn Smith's interference of an enlightened one prior to the breaking up of the stone age.

How to rid its right of way of weeds so tall, rank and troublesome as to interfere with the operation of trains, has been solved by one of the big western railroads by the invention of a machine that does the work of 200 men a day.

The new gasoline weed burner covers 25 miles in 12 hours, while heretofore it has required a gang of 16 men, working a full day, to cut the weeds from a single mile of track.

The weed burner is built entirely of steel, with regulation trucks. At one end is a gasoline engine, used for propelling the car and pumping the air which forces gasoline to the burners, spreading out near the ground. When at work the weed burner runs three or four miles an hour, but can make a speed of from 12 to 16 miles, and is handled on the road under regular train orders.

Tanks carried on the car platform contain enough gasoline for a day's run. Through rows of burners spreading well beyond the rails, the flaming gasoline is forced downward into the weeds, killing root and branch, while the old process did not stop future growth.

It is not uncommon on western branch lines, addings and commercial tracks to see weeds from three to seven feet high, which form a great obstruction to train movement, cause slippery rails and make operation difficult. The weed burner is therefore a solution of a serious railroad problem.
